YOGA PURA MASTER-LEVEL TEACHER TRAINING PROGRAM COURSE LISTING AND DESCRIPTIONS

* Indicates courses included in the 300 hour program

Techniques

Foundations of Asana * (12 hours/500-hour program and 9 hours/300-hour program) - This course will explore the relationship of the practice of asana to the true goal of yoga—liberation. Topics will include asana's function as a part of practice; how and why asana can move us toward liberation; and how to skillfully use asana as an effective part of our practice without striving toward the perfection of the outer form. In addition, the class will investigate the ten fundamental principles of the asana and how they relate to different poses.

Practice of Asana (24 hours) - This is a series of four classes that will explore the practice of asana. This class will delve into the specifics of alignment, energetics, and effects of the postures in the four major categories: Standing Postures, Forward-bending and Twisting Postures, Back-bending Postures, and Inverted Postures.

Pranayama * (9 hours) - As one of Patanjali's eight limbs of yoga, pranayama is a key component of yoga practice. In this course we will introduce and practice various preparatory and traditional pranayama techniques and we'll discuss breath as the primary vehicle of prana and the relationship of breath to mind and body.

Yogic Meditation (26 hours) - Meditation is a foundational practice in the journey of the evolution of consciousness. This experiential class will investigate intersection between mind and consciousness and will reveal techniques to evoke the meditative state.

Teaching of Asana (18 hours) - This is a series of four classes that will explore the teaching of specific asanas. This class will delve into the specifics of alignment, energetics, common problems, modifications, and use of props in postures in the four major categories: Standing Postures, Forward-bending and Twisting Postures, Back-bending Postures, and Inverted Postures.

Gentle and Restorative Yoga * (6 hours) - Gentle and restorative yoga carries enormous benefits for seniors, people with illness and injuries, as well as able-bodied practitioners. In this course we will look at specific techniques and postures for teaching this meditative and rejuvenating style of yoga.

Building a Class * (6 hours) - Weaving all of the elements of a yoga class into a seamless, self-supporting whole is an art form. This class will explore the different elements of a yoga class including creating an environment, developing a theme, and the art of asana sequencing.

Modifications and Manual Adjustments * (8 hours) - In this class, we will learn how to modify poses to accommodate various conditions and body types. Topics covered will include the theory of modifications, use of props, and common misalignments.

Kirtan: Yogic Chanting * (12 hours) – Devotional practices are a powerful tool on the yogic path, perhaps none more than the practice of chanting the names of the divine. In this class, students will be diving into the practice of Bhakti yoga through the art of kirtan (call and response chanting).

Weekly Asana Classes * (75 hours/500-hour program and 30 hours/300-hour program) - Ongoing practice is the cornerstone of yoga. With this in mind, students will be required to attend twice weekly asana classes with teacher training staff.

Home Practice Requirement * (45 hours/500-hour program and 30 hours/300-hour program) – Students will be required to maintain a home practice, practicing a minimum of three hours per week.

Teaching Methodology

The Language of Teaching * (6 hours) - The ability to effectively communicate is a key component in our capacity to teach. This course will explore the different ways in which people learn and outline techniques for tailoring our style to most effectively communicate our message.

Working with Beginners (12 hours) - Working with beginning students is arguably one of the most important and challenging aspects of teaching yoga. Common beginner issues, teaching strategies, and preparatory postures will all be covered in this course.

Yoga for Special Needs * (3 hours) - In this course will explore how best to work with students having conditions requiring special attention or modification.

Integrative Teaching * (12 hours) - A coherent and inspiring class includes many elements, all of which must be successfully woven together into a seamless whole. We will investigate teaching techniques that bridge the physical, mental, and spiritual realms to create classes in which all elements reinforce and support all others.

Anatomy and Physiology

General Anatomy * (12 hours/500-hour program and 9 hour/300-hour program) - An understanding of the workings of the physical body and its systems provides us with greater insight into our asana practice. This knowledge becomes even more important when we become involved with teaching yoga to others. This course will provide an overview of the major systems of the body as well as a more in-depth investigation of the muscular, skeletal, and nervous systems.

Anatomy of Asana * (9 hours) - In this course we will explore the intersection between physical anatomy and the practice of asana. Knowledge gained in General Anatomy will be applied to the functioning of the various bodily systems in asana practice, with special concentration on the workings of the musculoskeletal system.

Energetic of Health * (6 hours) - While the physical aspects of the practice have far reaching benefits, the real transformative power lies in the more subtle aspects of our beings. In this course we will discuss the relationship between the various bodies (koshas) as well as the various components of the energy system and how they can be used to move us towards liberation.

Seeing and Understanding Bodies* (6 hours) - In this course we will learn various techniques to evaluate the anatomical and energetic quality of poses including common compensations. Practical application will include the in-class evaluation and manipulation of poses of students of varying levels of competency and body types.

Philosophy, Ethics and Lifestyle

The True Essence of Yoga * (12 hours/500-hour program--9 hours/300-hour program) - Yoga is a complex and often misunderstood science. Yoga Philosophy * (30 hours) - Patanjali's classic text on yoga provides an illumined system for the evolution of consciousness. In this course we will study this seminal work to fully understand the concepts and techniques it presents as well as to learn how we can use the teachings to deepen our own practice. Included in the course will be a comparison of the Yoga Sutras with other important texts such as the Bhagavad Gita and the Hatha Yoga Pradipika.

The Ethics of Teaching Yoga * (6 hours) - In this course we will explore what it means to be a yoga teacher and look at the ways in which we can ensure that the teachings and our relationships with students and others remain wholesome and pure.

Deepening the Practice * (6 hours) - In this course we will look at ways to keep our practice fresh and interesting. Working from anatomical landmarks, innovative sequencing, and altering pace and intention will all be explored.

Practicum

Assistant Teaching * (48 hours/500-hour program and 28 hours/300-hour program) - While not a formal class, this condition of graduation requires that student teachers assist another approved qualified teacher in an ongoing public class for a period of at least six months.
